PREFACE.

PREFACE.

The Eighteenth Volume of the Lineage Book includes the Revolutionary Records of the ancestors of patriotic women who joined the National Society early in the year 1897.

This volume has been compiled with the greatest regard to accuracy. Through the most thorough investigation, of all the sources of information, many more of which are now available to us, inaccuracies which appear in original papers have been corrected. Special effort has been made to ascertain dates, and errors have been detected by learning the full name of the wife of the patriot, as it has been found in the complications that have arisen in comparing the records that her name has oftentimes been the sole proof upon which to decide a disputed claim.

It has also been the purpose to have the records present as much interesting detail as possible, so that in reading these pages one cannot but feel that the services rendered were not merely nominal but actual.
